HALLEM BUSINESS WAS CLOSED OUT

Attorney T B. H. Brownlee, receiver of the Hallam Construction company, sold a large quantity of assigned property belonging to the said company at public outcry at Washington. A concrete mixer and appurtenances was sold to T. C. Bebout at $250; a 25-horse power boiler and engine was sold to R. H. Hallam for $255; Thomas E. Donovan, agent for the Good Roads Machinery company, purchased a crusher and articles going with it for $150 and R. H. Hallam bought another crusher for $130.

At 10 o'clock Receiver Brownlee sold at public outcry the business property at 77 East Beau street, fronting 100 feet on the north side of the street, to Samuel Munce, at a consideration of $14,000. On the lot which extends from Beau street to Pine alley, is a two story seven room brick dwelling house, an office building at the front, blacksmith shop, barn and paint shop.

Another property disposed of was the Gayhart property, fronting 45 feet on the north side of Pine alley, on which is erected a large frame barn 41x120 feet, which was sold to J. F. and C. Curran, at a consideration of $2,950.

Receiver Brownlee also sold the Warrick property on the north side of Pine alley, on which there is a double frame dwelling of five rooms on each side. This property brought $1,950 and was sold to Samuel Munce.

The old Powers property in East Chestnut street was purchased by John W. Seybold for $3,350. The lot fronts 45 feet on East Chestnut street and extends back 240 feet to East Pine avenue. On it is a brick residence and outbuildings.

BOY PLEADS FOR WORK

Carmella Farace, 14 years of age, stepped into the Independent office this morning and asked if there was any means by which he could get a position at any kind of work. It isn't a matter of choosing as to what he wants, but it is a question of getting something to do and getting it quickly. The boy is the oldest of a family of five children and the father has been in poor health and out of work for a long time, and food and clothing are necessary things. The boy claims he has been at every mill gate and every place else in town where he thinks it possible to get work, but he has been refused or promised. "I can't live on promises any longer," he said, "I must have work, help me."

We believe the little fellow is worthy. He is intelligent and claims he can speak and write fluently for his age, and if some one who has a position for a little fellow will look up the ad on another page, and address the boy, it might not only make the family happy, buta bright willinb boy may be had.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT LAST NIGHT'S MEETING

One of the largest meetings ever held by the Board of Trade was that of last night. The council chamber was crowded to its capacity to accomodate the people. A special attraction had been planned in the talk by Prof. Robertson of the University of Pittsburgh, who chose as his subject, "The School as a Social Center." Prof. Robertson based his remarks on his observations of the town. He complimented the town for the new High school building and added that few towns the rank of Monessen boast of such a fine structure. He advocated that the auditorium in this building be utilized for all public meetings and that it be made the social and educational center of the town. Prof. Robertson was made use of all the time he was here, being called to address a meeting of the Woman's club in the afternoon. He was the guest of Prof. Gress during the day and left for his home in Pittsburgh early this morning.

Other matters brought before the board was the erection of a band stand in a public place. Some suggested that it be in the Ninth street park, while others favored the Sixth street grounds. The matter was referred to a committee of which C. F. Mentzer is chairman and the stand will be built at once.

The matter of constructing a swimming pool was referred back to the committee for further details as to cost, etc.

The educational committee reported that fifty of the two hundred guarantors for the Chautauqua had been secured. The board authorized the committee to enter into a contract for the Chautauqua as soon as the proper guarantee is secured.

The board passed a resolution recommending council for its attitude with regard to the tearing away of the bridge in front of the Laguire property and will stand back of that body in any legal actions taken to defend the bridge and keep it in tact. After the report of committees and discussions of minor matters, the board adjourned.

BAND STAND FOR THE PARK

The proximity of the business and central residence section dictates that there is but one logical place for the band stand and that is in the Sixth street park. If the band stand is located centrally, when the concerts are given, all within hearing distance can enjoy the music. From the Sixth street park the music will echo all through the lower business sections and people who care to, can go out into the park and enjoy the sweet strains. Again in case of a public entertainment, the band stand can be used for the speaker or speakers and the surroundings will furnish ample room for a public audience.

To locate the stand at Ninth street, you practically take the attraction away from where the people can assemble without effort, and effort in hot, sweltering weather is always at a premium. It is to be hoped the committee will use the wisest judgment and place an attraction of this kind where it will benefit the most people.

NEW BANK WILL OPEN NEXT WEEK

Next week ex-burgess Daniel Reamer will open his private bank on Schoonmaker avenue and be ready to receive deposits. For the past few days carpenters have been at work installing the banking fixtures and shaping his offices into a banking room. The fixtures were purchased from E. M Frye of the real estate department of the Trust company.

They were among the early banking fixtures of the town. The bank is located on Schoonmaker avenue near Fourth street in the Richards building where Mr. Reamer now has his offices and it will be the only bank on this street.

Mr. Reamer will receive and dispatch moneys to foreign countries and will do a regular exchange business in connection with his banking. He will give the affairs his personal attention.

Gets Another Chance

"Louis Widiszowski, a little Monessen boy, residing with his parents at 251 Third street, Monessen, has been sent here for being a bad boy. The conditions of the case were related to the court and it was ordered that the boy be sent home. Louis is a bright little fellow and has a lot of very good qualities about him. He is very polite and mannerly and has the greatest respect for those around him. He was given a chance to do better."

The above is a dispatch from Greensburg and it smacks of good common sense. It puts a nice big plume in the cap of Judge McConnell in our estimation of him. After all you can tell a man by the way he treats the boy. The boy deserves the tenderest sympathy, and a chance to do better. Man's higher intellect tells him to treat the boy with fairness and the wisest judgment, for the boy of today is the man of tomorrow.

We are personally acquainted with this particular case, was in the local court when the little fellow was brought in and charged with incorrigibility. We saw the mother weep with the child, heard her say the words that legally separated her and her offspring, and oh how hard it was for her to give up the little fellow. But she did it for she believed it was for the child's good, she believed he would be placed in hands that could control him and he would become a better man. Now the judge sends him back, believing he has been sufficiently punished and that he will make a change for the better and take a decided stand against everything that is wrong. We hope for the little fellow's sake as well as his parents that no disappointment comes to anyone.

Solves Liquor Question

In different localities people have different views of the liquor question. What suits one place, doesn't seem to fit another at all. The most peculiar solution of the problem seems to be at Lemmon, South Dakota, where they have adopted the municipal saloon. If business keeps up the same the next two months as it has in the past ten, the town will have contributed $12,000 in the twelve months toward schools and municipal improvements.

Before the last law limiting the number of saloons per capita throughout the state, Lemmon, with a population of 1,255 inhabitants, had eight saloons. Competition was keen, and to make their respective saloons "attractive," some of them became the lowest manner of dives. When the per capita law was passed, Lemmon was allowed two saloons. There was intense rivalry for the two licenses. A proposition that the city go into the saloon business was put to a vote and failed.

Then the Lemmon Civic association was formed after the city last spring adopted the commission form of government. The association included men of many different walks of life and business. Ministers were among the membership. The association was given a saloon license. A manager, one of the strongest prohibition workers in the city, was appointed. He receives no salary. The two barkeepers receive such good salaries that graft of any kind is eliminated.

By the association's rules the sale of liquor is not pushed. A blacklist contains the names of persons who cannot buy liquor. Patrons who once show a disposition to look even one time too frequently into the cup that cheers, are blacklisted. Known drunkards may not enter the saloon; neither may persons whose families are known to be in want. Mayor B. R. Watt is one of the strongest boosters of Lemmon's municipal saloon.

"Since the saloon started last July" said Mayor Watt. "it has given satisfactory results from every point of view. When we had eight saloons here you can readily imagine what element dominated our politics. We have eliminated nearly all of the factional fighting and are now working for the best interests of our city. We have practically no drunkards in Lemmon since the municipal saloon started. I would sure recommend it as being far above private ownership."

Roosevelt and Barnes

William M. Ivins, senior counsel for William Barnes in the famous libel case, made a tremendous effort to ruin the credibility of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt. With little more deference than he would have displayed toward the most obscure person accused of sinning against the law and the standards of frank dealings, Mr Ivins in five and one half hours of most subtle and thorough cross-examination did his capable best to make jurors believe that Col. Roosevelt has lived in a house of glass.

He has charged the colonel with having been a frequenter of bosses and a respector of the boss ystem; with having been a tax dodger; with having run for governor in 1898 while doubtful of his eligibility; and he insinuated throughout a masterly cross-examination that the ex-president had set him self up as a superman, a final judge of the morals, actions and good faith of other men.

It is reasonable to say that a more thrilling contest of wits was never heard in any court room. In the ex-president Mr. Ivins found an adversary worthy of his skill. A lesser man than Roosevelt might have been carried away by the sheer cunning of Ivin's tactics; but the Colonel exchanged blow for blow, capped every sardonic comment of Ivins with some characteristic engenious epigram of his own, or seized the opportunity to wheel around to the jury and justify himself with voice, hands and gleaming teeth.

When Ivins accused him of being a tax dodger, he reached into an inside breast pocket and brough forth a sheet of the tax receipts covering the period at issue, and right here he told the jurors ever so confidently, that it was only because he had to go and fight for his country that there had been any question of delay in tax payments—that, and the fact that he felt he was being unjustly treated by the tax appraisers.

When Ivins charged him with being ineligible for governor because he had sworn he was a resident of Washington in 1897, he fell back upon his one time friend and adviser, Elihu Root and showed that Mr. Root's advise to him was that a domicile was not a residence and that he had only sworn to being a resident of Washington while preserving his legal, voting, taxable domicile in the state of New York.

When Mr Ivins charged him with being friendly enough to bosses when their assistance or co-operation was of benefit to him, the Colonel fairly reveled in the opportunity to tell the jury that he had dealt with bosses not only for the people's good but for the salvation of the souls of the bosses themselves. And when Ivins put it to him flatly as to whether or not he considered himself the final judge of other men's morals and deeds, he was back at Ivins like lightning with the dictum that there were times when he had to be

Great for Emergencies

San Cura Ointment Should Be in Every Home

There never was known a more reliable ointment than San Cura. In most every case where it has been used, it has created astonishment. It drew a needle out of the foot of the daughter of Mrs. James Hitchcock, of Centreville, Pa., after the doctor had used his lance and failed.

It has healing and antiseptic value. It possesses so much healing virtue that it is guaranteed by Craig's Drug store to relieve any kind of piles, eczema, tetter, salt rheum, boils, carbuncles, ulcers, all kinds of chronic sores, chilblains and shaped hands, or money back.

It's a mighty handy remedy to have in the house in emergencies for bruises, burns, cuts or scalds, because it relieves the pain and is antiseptic and healing. It's a medicine chest in itself—a little family physician that is ever in demand. 25c and 50c a jar at Craig's Drug store.

In great emerg whe e men are demanded in the vir rards, women are called to ass n wine treading. Our correspon ent saw young women wear ng their own garments which the kilfully gather up around ther until they assume the biggest an most abbreviated of Dutchman "britchen" costumes, while in th rinery.

When Billy Sunday Came to Town

By ALEXANDER CORKEY

Copyright, 1913, by the H. K. Fly Co.

SYNOPSIS.

Reginald Nelson, a young Englishman of high birth, comes to this country to win fame and fortune. On the steamer he meets Albert Townley, a minister, Mrs. Graham and her pretty daughter, Joy.

Reginald goes to Bronson, home of his three new acquaintances, where he learns that Joy's father is a leading lawyer, who is the mainstay of a corrupt political ring. He gets a job.

The young Englishman enters the social life of Bronson. He falls in love with Joy, and later discovers that she is engaged to be married to Roland Gregory.

Allan Rutledge, another minister, and the Rev. Mr Townley confer on the evil moral and laboring conditions in Bronson. The reform element meets and decides to have Billy Sunday, the noted evangelist aid in a "cleanup."

Editor Marchmount offers Reginald a position on his paper. The latter accepts, and later he performs a heroic act in stopping a dangerous runaway.

Nelson starts on his work on the Courier. He begins to investigate the suspicious death of Mae Mobray, a youthful worker in Roland Gregory's factory plant. The councilmen and saloon keepers oppose the coming of Billy Sunday.

A tabernacle is built for Billy Sunday, and Reginald, in the columns of the Courier, begins a spirited campaign in favor of the evangelist. Sunday holds his first meeting in Bronson.

Much to the anger of Mr. Graham and Bud McCrea, a councilman, Sunday's work proves effective as an attack on vice. "By the help of God we'll clean up Bronson," says Sunday.

CHAPTER IX.

Man to Man.

"YOU can do just as you please. If you don't care anything about God and if you don't care anything about the results of your actions, you can lie if you want to; you can steal if you want to; you can fight booze, you can commit adultery if you want to, but listen to me: be not deceived, God is not mocked, and what you sow you'll reap. You can go your way and you can go it to the limit, but as sure as there is a God above you will have to pay the price."

With these words, spoken with intense earnestness, Billy Sunday began an address to the men of Bronson and the surrounding country one Sunday afternoon. It was a thrilling sight for the evangelist when he stepped on the platform. The immense tabernacle was crowded to the rear doors, fully ten thousand men being massed together in the most wonderful religious service ever held in all Michigan. In the choir loft there were fully one thousand more men and boys. It was after three weeks of hard campaigning, during which Mr. Sunday had preached as no one ever preached before in Bronson. He had denounced sin, hypocrisy, ungodliness and every form of evil in a terrific manner, using at times a vocabulary of his own. He pictured the results of infidelity with unsparing vividness. But he had kept his great audiences night after night in good humor and he carried public sentiment with him in a manner that amazed such men as Bud McCrea and Mr. Graham. In his pictures of heaven and in his descriptions of hell the evangelist became a tragedian and the people rejoiced and trembled in turn. After the first two weeks he began to plead with men to forsake their sins and surrender themselves to Jesus Christ and take up the Christian life. The responses to his invitations were immediate. Hundreds pressed forward to confess their willingness to live henceforth for God. Among the penitents had been men of all classes, rich and poor, learned and ignorant. Some society women crowded to the front in company with operatives from the Gregory factory. Students from the Normal school and professors also, were among the throng which "hit the sawdust trail."

The Courier devoted more than half its space every day to reporting the meetings, and religion was the sole topic of interest in Bronson. Prayer meetings were held every day in every section of the city: shop meetings at noon were addressed by scores of ministers and prominent laymen. Business men who had never before mentioned religion to their associates now pleaded with them to accept the Christian faith.

Elaborate preparations had been made beforehand to insure the success of the great men's mass meeting that Sunday afternoon. It was a beautiful winter Sabbath, and Reginald Nelson, who had remained faithfully at the press table night after night, sat on the platform and watched the regiments of men throng into the tabernacle. When the multiplied thousands filled the broad arena he said to himself, "This is an army."

After the opening singing and prayer Billy Sunday began his address. At the opening sentence he caught the attention of all.

"I am going to hit right out from the shoulder today, men," he continued. "God knows I feel kindly toward you and that I have no other aim than a desire to help you. Before you leave the tabernacle I hope I shall have convinced you that I did not come here today to pump you full of hot air."

Here the speaker unloosened his collar and tie and laid them on a nearby chair and also removed his coat.

"I am trying to practice what I preach," he exclaimed, "for I throw too many rocks at other people to live in a glass house. I am trying the best I know how to tote square."

There was a burst of applause from the audience, and Mr. Sunday continued with increasing animation:

"I know what it is to work. I lived on a farm in early life, and from nine years of age I have been doing a man's work in the world. My father died in the war, and my mother was left a widow with a family of small children. I tell you I have crawled up out of the sewers of poverty."

The great army of men were now listening intently, and the evangelist plunged into his theme.

"I have been told a good many things about some of you fellows here in Bronson," he declared, walking up to the edge of the platform and glaring out over the throng. "I know that some of you go home at night, you old devils, from places where you wouldn't think of taking your wife for all the world. And you young bucks, I know about you, too. Some of you go down to the haunts of vice, and if some one asks you to go to the tabernacle and hear Bill you answer, 'Oh, no, he is too d——d vulgar.' You miserable, little low down wretches, some of you are so low down that you would have to reach up to touch the bottom, and you are so crooked you could hide behind a corkscrew."

These statements evoked roars of laughter and applause, but Reginald could see a number of young men flush as the speaker made these biting remarks, and among them was Roland

"You miserable low down wretches."

Gregory, who had attended the meeting for the first time that afternoon.

"I know the fellows who will find fault with my talk today," continued Billy Sunday. "Every fellow that is not toting square, every fellow who is lecherous, false, dishonest and mean will go away from here and cuss me, but you men who believe in what is right and who want to see Bronson cleaned up, you men who are trying to live the right kind of a life, I know you are with me. I don't expect to please either fools or rascals, and I never try to.

"Christianity appeals to strong men," he shouted. "It is the weak man who is the sinner. Sin is too much for him. The Gospel makes the weak strong."

Many of the older men in the audience could well remember when the speaker's name appeared daily in the papers as the fastest runner in one of the champion baseball teams in America over twenty years before, and their interest was intense as the former ball player referred to his life on the diamond.

"When I was playing ball," he said in colloquial tones, "I could run one hundred yards in ten seconds. I made the circuit of the bases in fourteen seconds. After I became a Christian I was just as good a ball player as before."

The audience was now completely under the power of the evangelist's personality, and he became more personal in his address.

"What are you living for?" he asked. "Some of you are living for money, and I have no objection to wealth if it is honestly acquired, but remember this, gentlemen, there will be no pockets in your shrouds and if there were your arms would be too stiff to get your hands into them. When Commodore Vanderbilt, who was worth $200,000,000, died some one in Wall street asked how much he left, and the answer was that he had left it all. These words are true of every one of us. We came into the world without a dollar, and we go out without a dollar. If all the millionaires in hell could pool their money they couldn't buy a drop of water to cool their parched tongues. Remember that, you old reprobates!" roared the evangelist. "You can't take your gold and silver with you when you leave this world, and it wouldn't do you any good," he added parenthetically, "if you did take it, for it would all melt."

SISTER: READ MY FREE OFFER!

I am a woman.
I know a woman's trials.
I know her need of sympathy and help.

If you my sister, are unhappy because of ill-health, if you feel unfit for household duties, social pleasures, or daily employment, write and tell me just how you suffer, and ask for my free ten days' trial of a home treatment suited to your needs. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any man. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home at a cost of about 12 cents a week.

If you suffer from women's peculiar ailments causing pain in the head, back, or bowels, feeling of weight and dragging-down sensation, falling or displacement of pelvic organs, causing kidney and bladder weakness or constipation and piles, painful or irregular periods, catarrhal conditions and discharges, extreme nervousness, depressed spirits, melancholy, desire to cry, fear of something evil about to happen, creeping feeling along the spine, palpitation, hot flashes, weariness, sallow complexion with dark circles under the eyes, pain in the left breast, or a general feeling that life is not worth living.

I INVITE YOU TO SEND TODAY FOR MY FREE TEN DAYS' TREATMENT

and learn how these ailments can be easily and surely conquered at home without the dangers and expense of an operation. When you are cured, and able to enjoy life again, you can pass the good word along to some other sufferer. My home treatment is for young or old. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain how to overcome green sickness (chlorosis), irregularities, headaches, and lassitude in young women and restore them to plumpness and health. Tell me if you are worried about your daughter. Remember, it costs you nothing to give my home treatment a ten days' trial, and does not interfere with daily work. If health is worth asking for, then accept my generous offer and write for the free treatment, including my illustrated booklet, "Woman's Own Medical Adviser." I will send all in plain wrappers postpaid. To save time, you can cut out this offer, mark your feelings, and return to me. Send today, as you may not see this offer again. Address,

Want Aid For Scouts

Scout Commissioner George Bowes and the members of the movement make the following public appeal:

"Monessen Troop No. 1 Boy Scouts of America are entering into a contest to secure names of men who will help them to establish scout headquarters and stand back of the movement.

"Contributions of time and money are all voluntary and the expense of maintaining the organization is not great, still we need some financial help. The boys whose names are here given are authorized to ask you to join the local council and contribute $2.00 per year. A receipt will be given for the money and your name will appear in the list of supporters and friends posted in one of the down town stores.

"The patrol securing the greatest number of names will receive a 50 lariat rope. And right here let us say that there is an ex-cowboy waiting to show us how to handle the rope. Another former sailor is ready to show us all sorts of useful knots. Two other men have offered to show us how to do bandaging and first aid.

"There are, we are sure, other men who can do out door stunts of camping and wood craft who will come in and help us in these and other lines.

"Other plans are being perfected to give the young people of Monessen a little bit of good clean fun mixed in with a lot of usefui knowledge.

"The girls need not feel left out in these plans, for we are told there is something talked of for them.

"The scouts who are in the contest are as follows: Wolf Patrol leader, Harold Ruse; acting patrol leader, Joe Griffith; assistant patrol leader, Sidney Bowes; secretary, Wallace hood; treasurer, Ralph Shirley; scouts, Frank Bumbaugh, George Barry, William Allison.

"Fox Patrol—leader, Harry Gribben; assistant leader, Jay McGaughey; treasurer, Charles Lewis; secretary, Milton Hoffman; scouts, Joe Dudas, Raymond Higgins, Clyde Kehlenbeck, Edmund Descent.

"Lauze Patrol—James Fabries, Stuart Brazee, Gordon Williams, William Williams, Adolph Allison, Kenneth Husher, Donald Pender, Daniel Banich, James O'Shaughnessy, Michael Yoney, John Cartwright."

Can there be any stronger proof offered than the evidence of Monessen residents? After you have read the following, quietly answer the question.

Mrs. W. Koerner, 119 Knox avenue, Monessen, says: "I had a bad fall which injured my back. I suffered from a constant pain across my loins and in the morning I was always worse. If I stooped over a sharp pain caught me and I could not straighten. The secretions from my kidneys were unnatural and caused me annoyance. I didn't rest well and rheumatic pains made it hard for me to get about. I was often so lame that I had to sit on cushions and I had puffy sacks beneath my eyes. I doctored and tried different medicines, but got no relief. Two boxes of Doans Kidney Pills, procured at the Hirsch Drug Co. drove most of the trouble away. I take this medicine off and on as a kidney tonic and it keeps me in good health."

OLYMPIC THEATRE

comedian who makes the whole world laugh He appears in his most complete, and most perfect, best of all of his productions, "The Champion."

Tuesday—Our special is one of Pathe's best and first of the kind comedies, sent to us in purpose to run in our theatre and get the opinion of our patrons. So all those who enjoy a first class comedy must see this picture and express their opinion The name of it is "Just Nuts."

Wednesday Special—The tenth episode of "The Exploits of Elaine" The Life Current, the wonderful clutching hand, a master criminal, and an extra comedy, from Pathe also.

Thursday—Betty Nansen, the Royal actress in her first American photo play "The Celebrated Scandal," the great stage success by Jose Echagarry, the Spanish Shakespeare. Released through the William Fox Box Office Attraction company, the owner of several dozen of the best theatres in New York, Chicago and Boston etc., for his own theatres at 50c and 75c admission. After he is through with them we get these productions, so it is a credit to Monessen people to have what the million dollar theatres of the large cities have. Miss Nansen is the Star of the Royal theatre, Copenhagen. She has been decorated by kings and emperors. She was the friend and inspiration of Henrick Ibsen and the creator of his hectic heroines. Of her the master dramitists said, "She does not act, she is a wonder, she is a genius."

Friday Special—"Helen's Hazards R. R. Series." Those who do not follow this picture every Friday are missing a great deal. Then we also have "The Girl Detective Series," another great serial equal to either "The Black Box" or "The Exploits of Elaine." Yet it seems that our patrons do not follow this picture as they do the other serials. If you start once, you will be present at all of them.

Saturday—The cartoon comedy and Animated Weekly, bringing the doings of the world before you, and besides this four reels of genuine war, battles under the sea, on the sea, through the air and upon the land We have not had a war picture for eight months, but now by doing this, we are perfectly satisfied that we are doing the right thing So all of our patrons must see this picture

Coming soon—The greatest serial picture 12 dramas, three reels each, showing the twelve vital questions of life The first is "The Price of Fame" Second 'The Pursuit of Pleasure This will appear under the title "Whoo Pays?"

We must follow the moving pictures. In them we learn more of our public, educational and moral institutions than we have learned in all our lives. Prof. C B Roberson of the University of Pittsburgh, who spoke before the Board of Trade said "Build a swimming pool build an ampitheatre for amusement" Celebrate the openings of your roads, but go and stay with your future men and women Go to our High school, to our monument and build with it a moving picture show. DAY HAS BEEN SET FOR TRIAL

Philadelphia, Pa, April 24—The church trial of Rev. George Chalmers Richmond, the progressive rector of St. John's Episcopal church of this city, on the serious charges brought by Bishop Rhinelander last winter, is now set for the middle of May. It is planned to draw the names of Dr. Richmon's triers on May 11th. Meanwhile Dr Richmond is cited to appear and answer to a third accusation brought against him. He has already pleaded not guilty on two charges.

The big church row which threatened at one time to disrupt St. John's parish, one of the biggest in the country, arose last December, when charges were brought against Dr. Richmond in connection with his attitude toward Bishop Rhinelander and his invitation to outsiders to talk in his church. One of the circumstances leading up to the charges was a letter written by Dr. Richmond to the Bishop after the latter had refused permission for Mrs Sarah Conboy, a labor leader to speak in the church.

Dr Richmond is charged with breach of his ordinance vows and conduct unbecoming a minister of the gospel In addition to the conflict which arose between Bishop Rhinelander and the rector, further charges have been made. Dr Richmond is accused of attempting to extort a large sum of money from the late Bishop Mackay-Smith. He is said to have called Thomas F. Gale, a former vestryman, a thief. Still another charge is that Dr. Richmond was guilty of assault and battery upon a girl who had been misbehaving during the church service

In defense against the extortion charge, Dr Richmond has explained that the late Bishop wrote him three insulting letters, which, he says, were so slanderous that he decided to bring suit against the bishop for $50,000 damages. Later he wrote the Bishop offering to drop the case if the Bishop subscribed $1,000 to St John's church, $1 000 to Dr. Richmond's advisers and $10,000 to the rector himself The bishop died while the negotiations were pending.

The letter on which the earlier charges were based, in part, reads as follows "My Dear Bishop:I am very sorry that my recent action in regard to Mrs. Conboy has plunged you into so much spiritual anxiety Your extra precautions, both in the guarded way by which you sent me your message of warning and by sending your ecclesiastical spies into our church to watch and listen, were all out of place and uncalled for They savored of the picayune, the small and the mean. Trick men are not great, large minded, noble fellows. The next time such ecclesiastics appear in St Johns, I shall call them up to the chancel and question them They should be out preaching the gospel instead of doing our bishop's dirty work"

Dr Richmond declares he will fight the charges to the end. He has secured legal advice and was represented by a lawyer when he pleaded to the first two charges made against him In support of his actions, he has declared that certain interests had been for a long time trying to "get him." He charged that Bishop Rhinelander was elected by a convention controlled by capital. He charged that Father Mortimer, now deposed and living the life of an exile in England, and George Wharton Popper, the corporation lawyer, "fixed it." The Holy Ghost was not present at that election," he said Dr. Richmond has been outspoken in declaring that the Protestant Episcopal church has always "taken its cue from J. Pierpont Morgan and Wall street," and that the church is the "most incompetent church Jesus Christ has in the world at the present time"

Good Wholesome Vaudeville at Star

Lovers of good, wholesome vaudeville will be pleased to learn that the Star theatre has introduced a novel act for today. It is McShaffrey's special. Everybody around this burg knows what McShaffrey's special means. Anything that Mac specializes in is bound to be good There is a bicycle act, music, mirth and song, dancing, comedy, semi-tragedy, scenes from Holland, funny scenes, and scenes that will make you laugh all over This is a feature that will be carried on weekly at the Star if it is sufficiently appreciated to make it profitable See this wonderful show this afternoon and evening

ALL IS NOT GOLD THAT GLITTERS

Neither is everything sold under the name of wine "wine." Wine does not become perfect and suitable for medicinal purposes and family use until it has lain and ripened from four to eight years Many of the cheap grade wines on the market today are but a mixture of grape juice and brandy, and are consequently high in alcoholic strength and not suitable for medicinal purposes A wine with only the spirit formed from the natural sugar, and free from all unhealthy salts is suitable for family and medicinal purposes. Such is Speer's Wines from the Mount Prospect Vineyards at Passaic, N. J.
